2 'Now, listen carefully to what I say. Those princesses will give you a drink. But you must not drink it. Do you hear me? You must not go to sleep. You must stay awake all night. Then you can watch them. And look! You can have this. It's a magic cloak. The princesses will not see you when you wear this. You will be invisible! Then you can follow them.'

Page 21 3 1 No 2 Yes 3 Yes 4 No 5 Yes 6 No 4 The king had twelve daughters. Every morning the princesses' shoes were very dirty. The king could not understand it, so he wrote a notice. A soldier read the king's notice and saw an old woman. He gave her some water, and she gave him a magic cloak. The oldest princess gave the soldier a drink, but he gave it to the dog. He followed the princesses to a castle across a lake. He watched them dance with twelve princes. He told the king everything and then he married the oldest princess.
